

INTRODUCTION

Oh No He Didn't!® Dating Advice For Men & Women Based On An Attorney's 15 Most Outrageous Experiences started off with an Introduction Chapter that discussed some of the recent celebrity "Oh No He Didn't!" headlines and how I would have advised those celebrities regarding their Dating Law issues if I had been given the opportunity.

In September 2010, I published the Oh No He Didn't!® Dating Law Update Newsletter with all of the details from the court documents filed in the love triangle lawsuit involving R&B singer Fantasia Barrino, her married lover Mr. Antwaun Cook, and his wife Paula S. Cook. Everyone loved the article because it included additional juicy details that the television stations, magazines, and websites failed to report. So, for my second book I decided to expand on that concept.

ATTORNEY LISA D. WRIGHT

Oh No He Didn't! Celebrity Edition – Dating Law Advice For Men & Women Based On Atlanta's Celebrity Experiences gives you the exclusive and complete details of the issues and disputes that Atlanta's Celebrity Entertainers have faced in recent years, along with Dating Law Advice for you and them!

In each Celebrity Experience Chapter you get a complete and detailed synopsis of the cases that each celebrity has been involved in during recent years, my legal analysis of the issues involved in those cases, and my Dating Law Advice for Men & Women based on those experiences. Additionally, at the end of each Celebrity Experience Chapter you get to review the juiciest documents that were filed in each court case.

And in case you are wondering how I obtained the rights to publish the court documents in this book, the documents are publicly available for fair use. Contrary to popular belief, the celebrity gossip websites, such as www.mediatakeout.com, www.tmz.com, or www.radaronline.com, don't have exclusive rights to the court documents they publish on their websites. They have simply gone to the courts where the documents are filed, requested the files, reviewed the files, and then paid for copies of the documents. Most courts charge from $.50 per page to $1.50 per page for copies.

OH NO HE DIDN'T! CELEBRITY EDITION

In some instances, the documents filed in the cases are filed under seal, which means that they are only available to the parties in the case, their attorneys, and the Court.

As detailed as Oh No He Didn't!® Celebrity Edition is, it is meant to educate and entertain you on the issues that may arise in dating and marriage relationships. I believe that you will enjoy it whether you need some Dating Law Advice or you just like reading everything that you can about celebrities and their relationships.
